"Okay then. I suppose that would be a difficult question," he admitted. Crow then looked at Scott. Crow thought of something and grinned slyly before licking him on the face. This made Raven, who was watching from afar, giggle like a lunatic. -OOC:ick. Wolf slobber!!! I hope Scott's mouth wasn't open...-

mysin watched as her companion played around unaware of the possibal danger and worry that was around her and laughed. she just hoped that safaia could keep herself out of trouble though wasn't sure playing with a wolfs tail would do it. she picked up safaia and moved her a couple feet back to distract her from the wolfs tail.

Ginger, even though her daze, had to giggle at the abrupt face licking Scott received. It was always funny when random things happen to people with bad tempers, in her opinion! But Scott was correct, people can't be classified into 'what they are', because everybody is unique. If people were classified as such, then the world wouldn't be living in.

Scott was not amused. He was milliseconds away from scorching the poor excuse for a creature when his twin stopped him. "let it go" he whispered. Brow raised, he got up and quickly scorchd his face, burning away anything on it that wasn't supposed to be there. It lasted a split second, and his face was unburnt--it was practically impossible for him to burn himself. That "rodent" had just made one very upset and enraged elemental, and any chance of him helping the beast was reduced to nil. Now free of the creature, he gave his twin an evil "you owe me" glare before standing next to kirah.

safala angry with mysin for taking her toy away walked up to the angry looking person with wolf slobber on his face(scott), batted at his nose a bit before bounding after a butterfly. mysin watched and held her breath hoping scott wouldnt scorch her companion. Glow was happy to see that Ginger was okay. She looked over at the twins, watching as Crow licked Scott's face. She smiled slowly before bursting into laughter. The look on Scott's face was priceless. Glow laughed for a moment before she managed to get control of herself, quickly getting quiet. She didn't want to make the elemental mad. She watched as Scott scorchd his face, a bit surprised when he didn't burn himself. That was cool.

((Alright! I'm back! 8D And hopefully I read everything properly, >_>_>)) Lapi and Luna followed behind the group. Lapi's eyes were on the temple, but then they switched the the twins and the lightning guardian from before. She stayed quiet, but continued to watch them. She couldn't help but giggle slightly when Scott randomly got licked. Luna was also giggling quietly along side Lapi. While Lapi was giggling - one of her plushies - the bunny, fell onto the ground. The laughter instantly stopped when she saw Scott unamused - as she noticed the plushie on the ground. "Oops..." She said to herself, kneeling down and picking it up. She began to pat and brush off anything that could of gotten attached to it.

Kirah continued to shake as Scott recollected the sequence of events leading up to that day. She remembered it well and wished that they had known about the rebels before it happened yesterday. Had it really been this long?

02-05 02:42 ..Lapis_Lazuli 11163 -USR [Profile] [Avatar] [Icons]

Taking off the place where his twin left, Dh'liah put the phoenix down into Kirahs lap before continuing, arms crossed. His voice was only half a tone different then his twins. "When the rebels had entered the sacred chamber, they set off a curse reserved for those not born with ill intentions. Inside, they found an access to an underpass outside. Thinking that they now possessed our powers, they ran out of the temple, in a rage, and began to attack anyone not associated with their group." He shook his head. "There was much bloodshed that day. By the time we had awoken, it was too late. Our city, once a densely populated capita, was gone. The volcanoes lava had started to run down and into the channels around the city. It incased the dead. With nobles to protect, we each focused on our abilities to control the flow of the lava and seek revenge for the fallen and the innocent."

02-05 02:42 Randomly~Zi 4553 -USR [Profile] [Avatar] [Icons]

The twin had paused briefly to collect his thoughts. The sounds from the volcano behind him were growing louder but he was not concerned. He knew that his city was protected. It was the areas out past the sanctuary that would be burnt away. "An invisible dome over our city of the dead, the lavas flow continued out, chasing our foes for days. It stretched out past the areas where the eye can see off the horizon and did not stop until it was called to put an end to the eruption, after every last rebel had burnt to cinders." Kirah continued. "If soothing the temper of 'Mehinoh' is what you seek, you must show us worthy of the tasks at hand to find 'him'."

"Weve given you permission to go inside most of the rooms inside of the temple. Inside you will need to find at least 4 shards of the elemental crystal. Each shard holds a concentrate of a different elemental power but should be harmless to those that do not call themselves 'element' and whose hearts hold true. Once you obtain them, you must find one of us after you figure out what you must do. With the crystal activated, you should have what you seek." The small turquoise baby on the lightning larv cooed softly as Kirah bird. As her eyes started to no doubt look for an entrance into the temple. Dh'liah went up to Bevelle and put his hands on her shoulders. She could feel pulses coming from him, but wasn't afraid. "Help me remember" she whispered. The male, in return, closed his eyes. "You will be fine." He smiled in his mind. He was sure her line had decreased in the war and was proud to see their child return. If only she knew. With a small smile on his side, he whispered "remember to avoid the area" before walking off towards his twin and Kirah, sitting on the ground, helping to heal the bird. Bevelle screwed her face. "The area?" She softly spoke. Oh how she wished she had guidance right now!

Ginger looked over to Scott, and seeing him do the 'burn away face' thing astonished her. She walked purposefully over to him, and eventually asked "How did you do that? Can you teach us?" She then realized she had just asked a question similar to Crow's, and decided that she shouldn't test his patience. "I'm, umm... really sorry for asking that..." she said, backing away slowly in case he decided to incase himself in flames again. Artemis had run off to get a better view aswell. He decided to rest there for a moment, taking in the scenery.

Althea could feel the twin anger and was not able to laugh in fear of his outburst that may come.

02-05 02:49 Randomly~Zi 4554 -USR [Profile] [Avatar] [Icons]

Ginger, hearing of this quest, went off to find Artemis and Spirit and put them in the compartment. Spirit looked a bit mad, because she was enjoying watching Scott's tempermental flares at the small kitten as long as he didn't go to far with the flames. Ginger took off, searching for Rain. "Rain?" she said, "Would you like to help us search?" The Guardian waited for a reply.

~ Sleepy looked at the twins sleepily. She wanted to take a nap right here ... right now - but she knew the importance of their new quest. Drudgily... she gathered up her bunny plushie and started walking around... trying to figure out a way to get into the temple. She knew that they must find these 'shards' that they talked about ... but they had to figure out how to get inside first. Hm... "poke poke poke" nope... not there search search search not there... *Anyone find anything yet? - she called out to the rest of the group.

02-05 02:52 aires213 10032 -USR [Profile] [Avatar] [Icons]

althea gather around bevelle and bevelle and spoke 4 shard huh? we must hurry and find them as I can feel it wont be easy to figure out what we must do with them Where is the entrance!!!

02-05 02:54 Randomly~Zi 4555 -USR [Profile] [Avatar] [Icons]

Ginger, still wanting a Guardian companion to help her search, looked around. She suddenly spotted Althea (even though she wasn't hard to spot with the bright colors). Ginger accompanied over to Althea, looking excited to search for the shards. "Hello, Althea! Would you like to accompany me and my friends on our search?" Ginger really hoped she would join. She was very afraid of being single handedly responsible for a large amount of Critters in such a large temple. She would have loved a companion to help her with them, and to join her in the quest.

02-05 02:55 rayvin_kitty 2049 -USR [Profile] [Avatar] [Icons]

with the group now moving again mysin was wondering weather or not she was getting more then she bargained for in this adventure but having come this far was determined to see it through. questioning her pace she came to walk beside Bevelle, turning to her with a look of concern almost asking if she was ok?

02-05 02:55 ..Lapis_Lazuli 11164 -USR [Profile] [Avatar] [Icons]

After Lapi had finished dusting off the plushie - she listened to what both Dh'liah and Kirah had to say. 4 elemental shards...? She raised an eyebrow. Luna grinned. To her, this was just a scavenger hunt type game. Lapi looked at her friend. "You do know they're serious... right?" She asked. "Of course." Luna grinned widely. Lapi sighed. "We better get looking, then." She motioned for the silver girl to follow - as well as Cleo, if she wanted. They walked around for a bit - but found nothing that could be an entrance. "Perhaps... It's hidden? We could be walking right by it... without knowing..." She wondered - placing her index finger on her chin. Luna put her hand on the wall and felt around for any cracks that could be an entrance.

02-05 02:56 melody_s_ang 9169 -USR [Profile] [Avatar] [Icons]

The elementals had given them their quest. Bevelle had just wished that she could drag one of them along. Looking back at Scott in particular, she shook. "That... that wouldn't work. Would it?" She noted that he was particularly upset and that he usually wasn't as enraged. Whatever happened must of really affected him. Bevelle looked down to see little Ayu. She paused. "...I... really dont know. But I think it might follow through once things that need happening happen." She took a second to think. "Right now though, we need to find a way inside. Ayu, do you see an entrance?"

02-05 02:59 aires213 10033 -USR [Profile] [Avatar] [Icons]

althea looked over at ginger and with a cuddle smile agreed let be on our way then we must find the entrance

02-05 03:02 red_uni387 26081 -USR [Profile] [Avatar] [Icons]

An entrance, he heard Bevelle say. Looking around, he didn't see anything that looked like an entrance, but that would be too obvious. He thought back to all those tales of treasure hunting Candy used to tell him, and spoke again. "I don't see any visible entrance, but do you think the entrance might be revealed if the stones were pressed a certain way? or in a certain pattern?" Already others were searching for an entrance; they needed to get in fast.

02-05 03:02 Randomly~Zi 4557 -USR [Profile] [Avatar] [Icons]

Ginger started to run all around the temple, looking for an entrance. She was almost about to lose hope, and turned apgats a wall. And the wall moved back a bit. She gasped, this was a great start! "Everybody come help me push this wall. It might be an entrance into the temple!!" she yelled enthusiastically. She pushed harder, but alone she couldn't move it any farther (sp.7). She waited for the other Guardians and critters to come help.

02-05 03:03 melody_s_ang 9170 -USR [Profile] [Avatar] [Icons]

Bevelle frowned. "You know, I think its a bit more simple then that. Maybe we should start at the base of the temple and work up?" She eyed the elementals one more time before taking a gulp and walking towards the base little safalia trying to keep up with mysin found it quite difficult. her small paws were getting tired. she looked around frightened that she might be left behind in the commotion, when she saw a light blue feather waft in front of her. pouncing on it her worry was temporarily distracted.
